About

Sarah is an ambitious 20-year-old college student navigating a demanding curriculum alongside personal skill development. While balancing lectures, projects, and exam prep, she seeks to continuously build practical knowledge without sacrificing her mental well-being or burning out during peak assessment periods.

Goals

-- Master key concepts through quick 5–10 minute daily exercises or interactive quizzes

-- Easily view daily streaks and learning milestones to maintain momentum and stay motivated

-- Retain core ideas through practical summaries and flashcards rather than re-watching full-length lecture recordings.

Needs

-- Short, interactive daily practice modules.

-- Visual dashboards and milestone rewards.

-- Smart notifications to prompt quick study sessions before deadlines and exams pile up.

Pain points

--Finds long, uninterrupted video lectures (45+ mins) inefficient for quick revision and deep concentration.

--Struggles with dense textbooks and scattered online tutorials that lack a clear, guided learning path.

--Finds it difficult to sustain a steady daily study habit when deadlines and assignments pile up simultaneously.
